Warrants were signed Tuesday in Justice Court for the arrest of two Bay St. Louis residents in connection with the embezzlement of equipment from the Hancock County Water and Sewer District, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

"A warrant has been issued for William J. Adcock, 18, for embezzlement and also a warrant for Tony B. Lee, 25, for embezzlement and receiving embezzled goods," Garber said.

Chief Investigator Bob Lambert said, "The sheriff's office received a telephone call from Water-Sewer District manager Eddie Renz on April 15, indicating (there was an illegal) installation of two grinder pumps and

Hancock woman gets three 20-year sentences for selling cocaine in bar

ECHO STAFF REPORT

Circuit Judge Kosta N. Vlahos this week ruled that a Bay St. Louis woman must serve at least 12 years in prison for selling cocaine in a Hancock County bar.

Catherine Hampton, a 44-year-old bartender, pled guilty in Hancock Circuit Court last week to three counts of sale of a controlled substance, cocaine, according to statement issued Monday by Assistant District Attorney Chris Schmidt.

"After her guilty plea, three other pending charges were dismissed," Schmidt said in the release.

Vlahos sentenced Hampton to 20 years in prison on each charge to run concurrently, with eight years suspended, Schmidt said, Dorothy Clark shows off her yard which was spruced up last Saturday as part of the Christmas in April program.

Christmas comes early in Hancock

BY SHANNON JENKINS
Staff Writer

One 75-year-old Bay St. Louis woman was more than happy to see several people tramping through her yard Saturday.

Dorothy Clark said she would sporadically glance out her window throughout the day to watch the visitors groom her landscaping. She was thankful for being selected as a recipient of Christmas in April, a volunteer organization devoted to repairing homes and grooming yards of elderly, low-income or handicapped homeowners.

"That was the first time I've ever had anyone clean my yard like that," said

Clark, who has lived in her home for the past 12 years. "They did everything. They cleaned the garage; they cleaned behind the garage; they even cut down a few small trees." Since her stroke in 1999, Clark has been unable to care for her yard like she did in the past. She said she felt like a celebrity when the volunteers from Main Street United Methodist Church arrived to work on her yard.

"It's nice to know people care about me," she said. "I was grateful to be chosen. I gave them all a hug."

Clark was among nine other local homeowners who were chosen for Christmas in April. Volunteers included the Navy, Casino Magic, GE, Stennis Rotary, St. Rose De Lima Church and residents from Felicity Street and Diamondhead.

Christmas in April also proved to be a welcoming experience for the volunteers.

"It's rewarding to see how much these people appreciate this program," said Christian Reese, a volunteer from Casino Magic Bay St. Louis who worked on a house only blocks away from Clark's home. "You can see how much it means to them when they walk outside and see the work you're doing."

Reese, the public relations and advertising manager at Casino Magic, said both she and the casino have participated in Christmas in April for several years.

"Besides being a great community project, Christmas in April is also a lot of fun," she said. "You get to work with fellow employees you may not have the opportunity to meet at work." Although the program provides both the homeowners and volunteers with rewarding experiences, Reese said Christmas in April can also offer inspiration.

"I hope other residents are inspired to help revitalize other bare homes in the community," Reese said.

Memphis International opens at Stennis Airport

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Memphis International, Inc. celebrated a new location at Stennis International Airport in Kiln with a ribbon cutting ceremony and social late last week. Scores of people attended the ceremony including representatives from Memphis' branch offices, local officials, and special guest Senator Trent Lott.

The company will perform modifications on C-130 aircraft from around the world.

The only thing that marred an otherwise successful event was the collapse of a small section of the apron in front of the hanger which used to house Smith and Smith, a privately owned aircraft parts business.

When the enormous C-130 brought in for the event pulled up, a section of the apron fell in. Reinforcement of the apron was already in improvement plans for the airport, but now the asphalt will have to be replaced by June, when Memphis plans to begin bringing in planes. On Monday, commissioners voted to declare the situation an emergency.

Memphis was formed in 1971, said guest speaker, company Vice-president of Operations John Salter, and has performed modifications to aircraft on six continents and in 25 countries.

Memphis chose Hancock County as a new location for operation for several reasons, said Salter. The large runway, new landing systems, and proximity to the Federal city at Stennis Space Center were a consideration, but the warm friendly reception by the community was the deciding factor, Salter said.

"We are thrilled with Memphis' decision to locate in Hancock County," said Port and Harbor Director

Hal Walters. "I don't think we can dream enough or imagine enough for Hancock County."

Memphis plans to employ up to 50 people when it is up and running at capacity. Salter said future plans could also include an expansion of its facilities at the airport.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

The American Cancer Society's Relay for Life benefit is set to roll from 6 p.m. Friday to 6 a.m. Saturday at the Hancock County Walking Track in front of Hancock Medical Center.

I think it is great that the east lane of Drinkwater has received its first asphalt coating in time for the big celebration.

There are a large number of teams in the Relay for Life this year, as chairman David Mayley and his crew have been working very hard to line of team captains.

There will be so many special events and entertainment during the Relay for Life throughout the night.

Activities begin at 6 p.m. for the registration of survivors and opening of the silent auction tent.

Things really begin to click at 6:15 with the opening ceremonies and much more plus the Survivor Lap "Lap Second Line."

There will be walking teams throughout the night.

At 10 p.m. the big Luminary Ceremony will take place. This is a very special time for cancer survivors and memory of those no longer with us, who fought the battles of cancer.

Among the entertainment groups will be Dr. Rock and the Interns band, Bay City Dancers, Driskell Mountain band, Texas Flat band, second line contest/umbrella contest, womanless beauty pageant, egg toss contest, hula hoop contest and many more very entertainment events throughout the night.

Of course, there will be some very good food to each too with a midnight snack contest.

It is hoped there will be a large attendance of folks from throughout the area for the Relay for Life. The many team members will be there throughout the night. Even if you stop by for an hour or two, this will show your support of the efforts of everyone participating.

Cancer effects the lives of each and everyone of us in one way or another. Hopefully I will see you at the Relay for Life Friday night.

Another important benefit is scheduled for Saturday in the area and that is the Kid's Walk for Kids, a benefit for Hope Haven Children's Center.

The Kid's Walk for Kids is from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday and starts at the Washington Street Pier in Bay St. Louis and finishes at the Garfield Ladner Pier in Waveland.

For more information, call Tracy at 228-467-1010.

Sounds like this will be a fun time for the younger generation.

Walkers collect sponsorships for the walk with 100 percent or the proceeds going for Hope Haven Children's Shelter.

I guess this is going to be a complete benefit column for today's issue.

I would at this time like to offer my thank you to all of the participants, volunteers, bean eaters, judges, donors, etc., which made the 14th Annual Red Beans and Rice Cook-Off American Cancer benefit such a success Monday.

There was a lot of hard work and general chairman Eddie Favre, Bay St. Louis Mayor and his committee, really need to be commended for making the Cook-Off a record breaker in all areas.

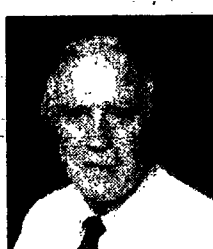

P.S. Eddie you came close to making that 50 entry total this year, you only need a few more to reach that millstone next year.

Congratulations goes to all of the trophy winners and I have to mention Jimmie Ladner, as his cooking earned him the second year in the row, the "Grand Bean Award."

The only two in the row recipients has been the City of Bay St. Louis. Over the 14 years, Coast Electric and Cafe' Reef have been two time winners, but not consecutive.

1962 photograph inspires 'valuable addition to Southern literature'

A memorable 1962 Life Magazine photo shows seven Mississippi sheriffs admiring a billy club as they lusted to bash federal agents' heads near the Ole Miss campus at the height of this state's first integration crisis.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

From that captured moment in Mississippi's wild ride into racial extremism during the 1960s, Paul Hendrickson has distilled a fascinating epilogue to Mississippi history built around the lives and progeny of the seven lawmen.

Only an exquisite writer such as Paul Hendrickson, with his trained eye of a skilled reporter, could take such a seemingly narrowly-focused story and make it into an elegant, and valuable, addition to Southern literature.

His "Sons of Mississippi," published last month by Alfred Knopf ($26) does just that.

The seven sheriffs (one of them actually a deputy) are all dead.

But Hendrickson traces their reach into Mississippi history via their lives and their direct descendants who live in the present time.

In truth, "Sons" is a social commentary of how the genes of those seven lawmen who shaped an unpleasant chapter of Mississippi history are personified by the inheritors in today's world.

Hendrickson, who was a prize-winning feature writer for the Washington Post before taking leave from the newspaper, in the late-1990s began spending much time in Mississippi. He became so intrigued by stories of this state's gothic racist years that he began putting them in print, first newspaper articles, now a book.

"Sons of Mississippi," was not produced without meticulous research and careful attention to detail, made more valid and convincing by Hendrickson's special writing gifts and his tireless effort to mold the story around the noted 1962 Life photo by Charles Moore.

As a reporter who covered the Ole Miss/James Meredith crisis almost every step of the way, I remember precisely why the sheriffs happened to be gathered outside the University campus

September 27, 1962 when the photo was made.

Remember, this is just three days before the bloody riot erupted on the Ole Miss campus, because word had spread that a 28 year-old black man named James Howard Meredith, after a court battle had dragged on for months, had been brought onto the campus by federal marshals.

The riot began during a Sunday afternoon, before most of the students, who had attended the Ole Miss-Kentucky game the night before in Jackson, had returned to the campus.

The sheriffs were among a small army of state law enforcement officers suspected to have been summoned by Citizens Council mogul Bill Simmons and a contingent of other wild-eyed segregationists.

Florida couple gives thanks to Hancock Medical Center

Dear Editor:
Recently my wife (Bea) and I checked into the Casino Magic in Mississippi for some R&R. On the second day of our stay, my wife became ill and was taken to a local hospital — Hancock Medical Center. She was quickly wheeled into the emergency room where the doctors on duty immediately examined her (at this time she had difficulty breathing).

The doctors stabilized her condition, and she was then admitted into the hospital for further tests and observation. Regarding her condition and being in a strange environment, I observed and listened to the doctors and staff in their treatment of her. They were not only very professional but actually took the time to talk to her, re-assure her and showed genuine concern for her well being. This, I believe is just as important to her recovery as the use of any medicine!

We wish to thank the entire staff at the Hancock Medical Center who as a group and as individuals contributed to her recovery.

The superb nurses in the emergency room, Dr. Roberts, Dr. Kasten, the nurses and supporting staff, Robert, Laurie, Catherine, Tony, Kim, Deloris, Hal, Tina and Guy. Then there was Thresa and the wonderful volunteers. The administration staff, especially Ms. Janet McQueen who visited my wife daily and offered me a prepaid phone card to make sure we could contact our family in Florida. Arrangements were made for me to stay in the same room as my wife knowing it would make her feel better.

Ms. McQueen also introduced me to Mr. Ellis C. Cuevas, publisher emeritus of the "Sea Coast Echo." Mr. Cuevas offered to drive me to a local store where I could purchase some personal things for my wife and waited until I completed these purchases and drove me back to the hospital.

Mr. Hal W. Leftwich, hospital administrator and the people of Bay St. Louis can be justly proud of the staff at the Hancock Medical Center. South Florida take notice!

We would also take this opportunity to thank Mr. Dewey Lewis a Casino Manager and Mr. Howard Bourg, transportation supervisor, both of whom made the arrangements to take Bea to the hospital. After five days she was discharged from the hospital. Again they made arrangements to drive us to the airport in Gulfport where we boarded a plane and returned to our home in Boynton Beach, Florida.

D'head hosts Bishop's golf tournament

The Bishop's Trophy Challenge Golf Tournament will be held Monday, May 5, at Diamondhead Country Club. The Catholic Diocese of Biloxi's Department of Education is sponsoring the first time event.

"One of the greatest blessings we enjoy is our Catholic Schools. They are tremendous assets to our Church and our community," said Most Reverend Thomas Rodi, Bishop of the Diocese of Biloxi.

"This tournament promises to provide some welcomed support for our teachers and for technological resources for students. I urge all golfers, men and women, to participate so that together we can make this tournament successful," Bishop Rodi said.

"The Bishop's Trophy Challenge can be a significant source of support for our schools and our young people," the bishop said.

In conjunction with the tournament, throughout the month of April, all Catholic students have been participating in a symbolic Walk with the Bishop. Students are encouraged to encourage parishioners, family members and friends who cannot participate in the golf tournament to support the event with a $10 donation - to walk symbolically with Bishop Rodi to support and improve diocesan schools.

"I appreciate the efforts of those teachers who have agreed to coordinate this aspect of the event," he said, adding, "I pray that everyone who has the opportunity will contribute to The Bishop's Trophy Challenge in order to support our children's education."

According to Diocesan Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Lanny Acosta, proceeds from the symbolic walk and the golf tournament will be awarded to each of the schools during the awards luncheon at the close of the tournament. The schools will be able to use the funds to enhance the technology efforts at the 19 schools and to improve teacher pay.

The 14 elementary schools and four diocesan high schools, plus St. Stanislaus School, have an enrollment of nearly 5,000 students.

The tournament can accommodate a maximum of 36 four-member teams. The cost per player is $150. Player/team registration forms are available now at each Catholic school.

To arrange for a foursome to the Bishop's Trophy Tournament, contact your nearest Catholic school, or call the Department of Education, at 228-702-2130; or email: lacosta@biloxidiocese.org.

To make donations to the symbolic "Walk with the Bishop", make checks payable to "Walk with the Bishop", indicate which school the funds are for, and mail to: Department of Education, P.O. Box 1189, Biloxi, MS 39533-1189.

With the blessing of Gov. Ross Barnett, they had set up a sort of command center two weeks earlier in the Alumni House. Two days before the Life photo was made, U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, informed that dozens of armed lawmen were stashed around the University Avenue entrance to the University, at the last minute aborted an attempt two days earlier to take Meredith onto the campus escorted by a handful of Justice Department officers.

I recall that day with the chilling memory. If the unseen Mississippi lawmen-hidden out near University Avenue-had opened fire, not only James Meredith but, also crack Justice Department attorney John Doar, and U.S. marshals alongside Meredith, would have been mowed down.

In the photo are Adams County Sheriff Billy Ferrell (holding the billy club), Leflore County Sheriff John Ed Cothran, Forrest County Sheriff Bob Waller, Jackson County Sheriff James Ira Grimsley, Claiborne County Sheriff Jim Middleton, Calhoun County Sheriff John Henry Spencer, and James Garrison, a Lafayette County Deputy.

Of the six sheriffs, I had previously been acquainted with two-Bob Waller, who was a brother of a colleague of mine at The Times-Picayune, and Ferrell, whom I had known through Catholic Church friends in Natchez.

Ferrell, then the president of the Mississippi Sheriffs' Association, as Hendrickson's book documents, sent out the call for fellow sheriffs around the state to come to Oxford "to help Ross Barnett to prevent the integration of the University of Mississippi."

This was earlier in the week as the crisis was building to the crescendo that would explode on the campus the night of Sept. 30. Ole Miss actually missed the riot, having left the campus to attend the Sept. 29 Ole Miss-Kentucky game in Jackson with his wife, intending to return to Oxford after a short visit home. But he never made it back.

Hendrickson digs deep into the personal record of Ferrell, and Ferrell's son, Tommy, who, poetically, is now sheriff of Adams County and also president of the Sheriffs' Association.

Hendrickson pulled a stack of files from the old State Sovereignty Commission as well as Klan documents, including a photo showing Billy Ferrell with several known Klan leaders. Other Klan documents further tied him to the Klan.

The younger Ferrell refuses to accept the premise his father (who died in 1999) would, as a Catholic, ever have been associated with the Klan. "It's a known fact that the Klan hated Catholics," Tommy Ferrell had told Hendrickson.

Bob Waller had been a popular local photographer in Hattiesburg who was persuaded by local folks to run for sheriff and somehow got elected. He wasn't the prototype of a head-bashing sheriff, mostly enjoying his regular golf games and cooking out with friends.

But its understandable Waller was loyal enough to his sheriff colleagues to answer a call from one of them to show up at Oxford to "stand with Ross Barnett against a federal invasion."

Sheriff James Ira Grimsley of Jackson County had rounded up a tough group of his own, including armed deputized citizens and shipyard workers, to accompany him to the Ole Miss campus.

Later, Grimsley, known to be a hard-drinking, red-faced braggart, had been quoted in Pascagoula editor Ira Harkey's book, "The Smell of Burning Crosses," as claiming to have done more damage, burned more cars, and slugged more people during the riot "than any other outfit."

In days immediately after the Ole Miss tragedy, Grimsley went back to Pascagoula and organized what was called a "citizens' emergency unit" that harassed Harkey's newspaper, The Chronicle-Star, as well as local blacks.

And, as Hendrickson reveals, Grimsley's "unit" hatched an ambitious plan to return to Oxford and kidnap James Meredith. It won itself a place on the register of Ku Klux Klans as a Klan affiliate.

Hendrickson's "Sons of Mississippi" meantime, brings to the fore some long forgotten instances of the segregationist insanity that gripped the state in the 1960s. They are sad reminders of how close to a lawless jungle we became, making brighter the hope of better days.

Relay for Life is the American Cancer Society's national signature event where participants walk, run, stroll, and shuffle around a track during the community event. The festivities of the overnight event celebrate survivorship, raise money and raise awareness in the fight against cancer.

The dollars raised at Relay For Life will allow the American Cancer Society to continue funding cancer research, develop new prevention and detection programs and continue providing its expansive patient support programs.

The Following Educational Programs & Services Are Offered in South Mississippi:

Tell A Friend - A program designed to encourage women age 40 or older to have annual mammograms.

Local Tobacco Advocacy - The American Cancer Society continues its work to strengthen and enforce tobacco ordinances.

Reach To Recovery - This is a volunteer visitation program that matches breast cancer survivors with anyone who has concerns about breast cancer. Whether the person has been diagnosed with breast cancer, undergoing surgery or found a suspicious lump, a Reach To Recovery volunteer listens to the person's concerns, recommends resources and offers emotional support. Between August of 1998 and January of 2001 over 200 women in Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone counties had a Reach To Recovery visit.

Look Good Feel Better - This program is designed to help women, undergoing cancer treatment, learn to cope with the appearance related side effects of treatment. It is designed to help them regain a sense of self-confidence and control over their lives.

"Relay For Life is not just about raising money, it's about raising awareness and bringing attention to this horrible disease," said Kerry Clark from the American Cancer Society. "Many of the participants are cancer survivors themselves and they are living proof of the strides we have made in the fight against cancer."

The Following Patient Support Programs Are Offered in South Mississippi:

National Cancer Information Center: Callers from Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone Counties can reach a trained Cancer Information Specialist 24-Hours a Day, 7-Days a week, 365 Days a year through the American Cancer Society's toll-free Cancer Information Line 1-800-ACS-2345.

Support Groups: These groups help patients and their family members with the physical and emotional stress of coping with a cancer diagnosis and treatment.

I Can Cope: Facing cancer can be one of the most significant challenges a person encounters. I Can Cope helps people meet this challenge by clarifying facts and myths through a series of educational classes.

"Unique You" Boutique: The American Cancer Society offers, free of charge, a selection of wigs, hats, scarves, breast prosthesis and bras to cancer patients in the Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone Counties.

Hope Lodge: It's tough enough to fight cancer without fighting a financial battle as well. Thanks to the American Cancer Society's Hope Lodge in New Orleans, a solution is on the way. Hope Lodge will offer a temporary home, as well as a supportive environment to patients and their families receiving cancer treatment in the New Orleans area. The American Cancer Society's Hope Lodge is projected to open in December of 2003.

2002 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report

City of Bay St. Louis

PWS#0230001

April 2003

We're pleased to present to you this year's Annual Quality Water Report. This report is designed to inform you about the quality water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water. Our water source is from four wells drawing from the Pascagoula Formation & Graham Ferry Formation Aquifers.

The source water assessment has been completed for our public water system to determine the overall susceptibility of its drinking water supply to identified potential source of contamination. The general susceptibility rankings assigned to each well of this system are provided immediately below. A report containing detailed information on how the susceptibility determinations were made has been furnished to our public water system and is available for viewing upon request.

Bay St. Louis: Well #1 230001-01 moderate susceptibility to contamination
Well #2 230001-02 moderate susceptibility to contamination
Well #3 230001-04 moderate susceptibility to contamination
Well #4 230001-05 moderate susceptibility to contamination

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Ronald Vanney or William Zimmerman at 467-2724. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled meetings. They are held on the first Tuesday of each month at 7:00 PM at the City Hall Annex, 111 Court Street, Bay St. Louis, MS.

The City of Bay St. Louis routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. This table shows the results of our monitoring for the period of January 18 to December 31, 2002. As water travels over the land or underground, it can pick up substances or contaminants such as microbes inorganic and organic chemicals, and radioactive substances. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some constituents. It's important to remember that the presence of these constituents does not necessarily pose a health risk.

In this table you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

Action Level - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - (mandatory language) A treatment technique is a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - (mandatory language) "Me" Maximum Allowed" (MCL) is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - (mandatory language) The "Goal" (MCLG) is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - (mandatory language) The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - (mandatory language) The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

tion rate is even higher, almost 52.5 percent. That's $65,404 that has been collected so far.

Once the city shuts down utility service, the case is handed to a collection agency.

The longstanding issue of past due water, sewer and gas bills came to a head last May, with the city increasingly strapped for cash, and the delinquent bill ledger growing fatter. Auditors have routinely mentioned the need for the city to crackdown on those who don't pay.

As it stands, city records show nine customers, owing a total of over $25,000, have been cut off. Others who were cut off previously were able to re-establish services by making sufficient payments.

A year ago, 46 customers, including three businesses, owed the city over $1,000 each. That included 22 customers who had bills that had grown to over $2,000. The largest past due tab, $7,581, has actually grown to $7,934 over the past year. Service to that locale has been terminated.

City officials say the accounts receivable nightmare developed over the years, even while most city customers faithfully paid all or some of their utility bills. Others either paid none, or made minimal attempts to keep up with their bills.

Municipal Clerk Robert J. Parker says the city put a policy in past last year to try to reverse the trend, requiring past-due accounts to pay 10 percent of the old bills, and all of their current bills. And add 1.5 percent interest to the past due tab, monthly.

Notices were posted on past-due properties, and certified letters were mailed to property owners concerning the crackdown.

And the effort inspired 23 citizens to pay 100 percent of their past due tabs over the year. Many others have paid at least 50 percent. There are some who, apparently, have been able to whittle their overdue bills only marginally.

"A handful either decided not to (pay) or are real slow," said Mayor Eddie Favre last week.

Parker said in an interview that the payment plan has not been "easy" for any of the customers, especially considering high gas bills that come up in the winter for gas-heat residences. Christmas, he said, obviously is a tough time financially for many, and brings on sluggishness in payments.

Along those lines, City Council at-large member William "Bill" Taylor said he knew of a resident who lost city utility services for lack of payments -- and made up for it by having Blossman Gas Co. install a tank on his property.

Taylor questioned whether residents have the right to get gas from an alternative source, since the city is in the gas business.

Parker said Friday that debt-ridden customers have come up with a wide range of tactics to get around their dilemma. For instance, one former customer ran a garden hose from his neighbor's house, said Parker.

Others figure out how to re-establish their own service by turning their meters back on once the city has turned them off, he added.

Parker said the city has had to force a couple of residents to move from their properties, lacking water and making no sincere attempt to whittle down their bills. If the city turns off services to a residence and then hears nothing from the customer in response, city officials speculate that some illicit alternative has been developed to get water or gas, he said. In those cases, the city dispatches workers to the property to check.

Is the city pleased with its crackdown track record so far? "Pretty much," said Parker. "I think we're well on the way to where it won't get this way again."

Sewer -- embezzlement

two control panels at a Lakeshore business without a permit. Also, the sewer line was connected to the district's service. The business owner had paid Lee for the installation of the equipment and service connection.

"Upon investigation of the installation of the equipment, the serial numbers on the two control panels had been removed and the grinder pumps had allegedly been stolen from the Water and Sewer District," Investigator John Luther, who is leading the investigation said Tuesday.

Lambert said that "Further investigating by the sheriff's office and Renz revealed that Adcock, an employee of the Sewer and Water District, allegedly stole a grinder pump and two controls panels and sold them to Lee for $300. It was also revealed that Lee allegedly stole the other grinder pump when he was a former employee of the district." Luther said the panels are valued at $400 each and the grinder pumps, $700 each.

Also assisting in the investigation -- which is still on-going -- are Investigator André Fizer and Deputy Stacey Wilson.

Sentenced

"leaving 12 years to serve. Because of her criminal record and the nature of the charge, Hampton will serve 85 percent of her sentence."

Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics agents arrested Hampton in July 2002 after she sold powder cocaine to an undercover agent over a two-month period, Schmidt said.

She was working at Just Rubies bar and was selling the cocaine inside the business, he said.

"The investigation was conducted in connection with other cases now pending," Schmidt said, "in which several other individuals were charged with violations of the controlled substance laws. Those cases should be coming before the court later this summer."

The award was made possible in a joint effort with Harrison County Parks director Mike McMillan.

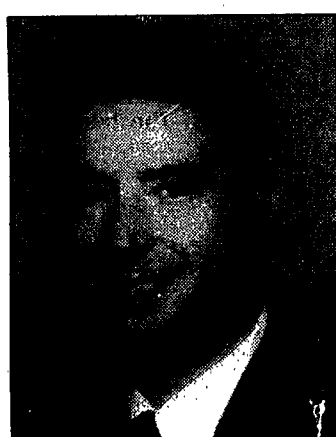

The grant provided 100 Live Oak, 100 Red Maple and 100 Green Ash trees which will be planted throughout Harrison County and its five cities over the next week.

BUSINESS NEWS

Gaming industry to show off at annual summit

BY JACK ELLIOTT JR.
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

The 10th annual Southern Gaming Summit next month on the Mississippi Gulf Coast is the casino industry's chance to strut its stuff, just not too much.

Gambling in Mississippi has seen a steady improvement in earnings year-by-year for a decade, some years better than others. The first dockside casinos opened in the state in August 1992.

Collectively, the casinos are the state's largest private employer. Tax collections have pumped about $2 billion into government treasuries.

Gambling is also one of the more publicity-shy industries in the nation, despite all the glitzy ads and billboards.

Ten years ago, reports on casino earnings in Mississippi took up columns in newspapers and precious minutes on the evening news. The industry was in its infancy and every tidbit on this new, sinful repast was news.

It's not so much that way now.

Casino executives leery of a flagging state economy and revenue-hungry Legislature like it that way.

From January through March of this year, casino revenues totaled $707.9 million. That puts the industry on a pace to top $2.8 billion in 2003. Total revenue in 2002 was $2.71 billion.

With a gaming tax that tops out at 8 percent, Mississippi state government took in $164.7 million in fiscal year 2002. Local governments collected another $109.3 million.

Through March of fiscal 2003, which started last July 1, state tax collections totaled $125.3 million and local revenue was about $82 million.

No new casino has opened in Mississippi since 1999. Some observers say the industry is in a slow period.

Gaming Commission executive director Larry Gregory said about a half dozen casino proposals are at some stage in the licensing process. That's very different from the dozens of operators banging on Mississippi's door to be let in 10 years ago.

"The market has leveled out both in the Gulf Coast and the Tunica markets," Gregory said. "When the economy is slow, the money necessary to fund a project is tight. Until the economy is better, you'll see this slowdown."

Gregory said despite the perception of a slowdown, the Mississippi gambling industry will put on a good show at the May 7-8 summit.

"It is the largest expo in gaming outside Las Vegas," he said. "From what I understand, the attendance this year is record-breaking and the exhibitors have doubled this year. I think that is indicative of this market. I think people want to come to Mississippi to do business."

Linda Helwick, Assistant Vice President. Gulfportian Helwick, a 28-year veteran of Hancock Bank, currently manages the bank's United States Naval Home branch in Gulfport. She has also been a Hancock teller, customer service representative, and trust department secretary. The Pass Christian High School graduate attended Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College.

Pass Christian Tour of Homes & Tea is Sunday

1024 West Beach, P.C. & Doe Havens-ca. 1895. What you notice first upon entering this colonial revival set a the extraordinarily graceful grand stairway. Many fine touches throughout, including a handsome portrait of the Swedish nightingale, Jenny Lind. Do not miss the kitchen. Of historical interest are a pair of small cottages on the grounds ca. 1840 which are among the oldest surviving structures in the Pass. Long known as the Stith-Morse house, 1024 West Beach was also once owned by the widow of Capt. Joseph T. Jones, the developer of Gulfport. Home (A) on map.

716 West Beach, John & Cynthia Hammond-ca. 1850. A mid twentieth century remodeling gives this once raised antebellum cottage its present colonial revival aspect. As you pass through the front doors (notice the fine transom above) you are greeted with a succession of rooms featuring antebellum, French rococo, and finally sea-side resort wicker furnishings. Model sailboats, and lighthouses are to be seen throughout. Grandparents will appreciate the "dormitory" for visiting family. Prior owners include the Thomas Gilmore and Felix Vacarro families of New Orleans. Home (B) on map.

706 West Beach, J. Herbert & Noel Williams- 1985. A collaboration of Mr. Williams and the late architect Monroe Laboulse, Jr. of New Orleans, this tall, well proportioned Acadian revival houses a number of family heirlooms including an eighteenth century Chippendale desk and Federal grandfather clock from a family home in Maine. Notice the prized Newcomb pottery. There is a rear entrance to this house at 706 St. Louis for those wishing to park nearby. The home is also a pleasant walk from Home B. Home (C) on map.

600 West Beach, Claude & Alice Perrier- 1987. Another impeccable example of post-Camille construction, this home designed by architect Fred Wagner is sited on what was once part of Louisiana Governor John Parker's summer place. A mid-nineteenth century rococo revival sofa, a family heirloom, and related seating anchor the living room. The landscaping is an excellent example of what can be done despite salt spray and difficult coastal soils. On tour for the first time. Open only from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. at which time tea and other refreshments will be served here. Home (D) on map.

130 West Scenic, Gerald & Settle Yeager-ca. 1870. It is hard to imagine a more pleasant porch on which to watch the comings and goings of shrimpers and oystermen in the harbor. Through the front doors a pair of small parlors greet the visitor. The treatment of the central hall is especially clever, and charming, as it transitions from traditional shotgun cottage entry, to living room, to modern kitchen and dining room. Many fine furnishings and collections throughout. It is a short walk to Home (F). Home (E) on map.

120 West Scenic, the "Blue Rose"-ca. 1848. Described in an architectural survey as the most significant antebellum home on the western portion of our town, this coastal cottage (of some 11,000 square feet!) in the West Indies style was once owned by town celebrity Paul Mattox - the "Marlboro-Man" of billboard fame. In recent years operated as a restaurant and gallery. On tour for the first time since renovation and return to residential use. Many important antiques. See especially the boldly remodeled master bedroom, bath, and marbled great room. Home (F) on map.

For first time, Historical Society tour to feature homes of West Beach-Henderson Point

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Pass Christian Historical Society's 27th annual Tour of Homes & Tea takes place Sunday, May 4, from 1:30 to 5 p.m.

For the first time, the historical society's annual tour of homes is devoted exclusively to the homes of West Beach-Henderson Point to market Street in Pass Christian.

First developed in the 1830s by John Henderson, a state senator with an eye for resort real estate, West Beach was especially popular with nineteenth century yachting enthusiasts whose piers (unlike those of their neighbors to the east) reached out into the nearby deep water channel for which the town is named.

Indeed, it was on West Beach that the Southern Yacht Club, long of New Orleans, was organized.

During his presidential campaign in 1848, Mexican War hero Zachary Taylor was a guest on West Beach.

If you drive down Sherman Ave., you will be driving over the exact spot (the home is gone) where the future president once received well-wishers. Prominent residents of West Beach in summers past include Dorothy Dix, the "Dear Abby" of her day, and Louisiana Gov. John Parker, who in 1915 entertained his friend, ex-President Theodore Roosevelt at his place on West Beach. The Adlai Stevensons of Illinois for a time rented on West Beach.

On Aug. 17, 1969, West Beach was ground-zero for Hurricane Camille and much of West Beach disappeared in the tornado-force winds.

Tickets are $10 for adults, $8 for children 12 and under, and may be purchased at any of the homes during the hours of the tour or at the Historical Society Building at 203 East Scenic Dr. beginning at noon the day of the tour.

Parking and trolley service will be available.

Between 1:30 and 5 p.m., a trolley will shuttle ticket-holders between homes, allowing you to park once near a home of your choice, visit that home and then use the trolley to reach subsequent homes.

The trolley will also stop in the parking lot of the shopping center at Henderson.

Note: The trolley will not be stopping at the "Tea House" at 600 W. Beach until it opens at 3 p.m. Hancock Bank assisted in making this service possible.

Hancock sheriff's department summer day camp

Hancock County Sheriff's Department is inviting youth ages 12-14 to participate in summer day camp. The camp will be held June 16-20 and July 14-16, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Civic Center on Longfellow Road.

Campers will learn electrical safety, fire safety, first aid, and develop team work and leadership skills.

Transportation arrangements will be made for youth living outside the city limits. Lunch, snacks and T-shirts will be provided to participating youth.

Only one hundred campers in each camp will be accepted. Applications are available at county and city schools or the Sheriff's Dept. at 122-1/2 Court St., and must be returned by May 15th.

Those selected will be notified and sent a package of information that must be returned for registration.

Rocks claim Region 4A title; Bay & Hancock advance runners

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws brought home the Class 4A regional title in track on Saturday in Gulfport.

The Rocks tallied 90 points to runner-up Picayune's 88 points. In a strange twist of fate a day earlier, a ruling was passed down declaring the Rock-a-chaws Co-Division 8 champions with D'Iberville.

The Rocks apparently had finished second to the Warriors a week earlier in the division meet; however, a review of the meets films proved that a Gautier runner was inadvertently omitted from the final standings in the 1600m run.

The Gautier runner had finished fourth and was omitted. After further review of the finish, the Gautier runner was added in fourth place which put the Warrior runner in fifth place.

The result took two points away from the Warriors in the final standings placing them in a tie with SSC for the title. The result gives SSC a share of the division title for the 14th time in 16 years.

In the regional meet, SSC remained strong in the distance events and field events and rode those areas to the title.

It is the first regional championship for SSC. The final standings in boys Class 4A were SSC with 90 points, Picayune 88, Poplarville 85, Vancleave 71, D'Iberville 62, Laurel 32, Gautier 23, George County 22, Bay High 15, Pearl River Central 14, South Jones 12, and East Central with 10 points.

The Rocks will send 8 athletes in seven events to South State competition this Saturday, May 3, at Hancock High School. The top four finishers in each event move on to the South State meet.

Kyle Lewis led the way for SSC qualifying in three events. Lewis was a double winner in the 1600m and 3200m runs, with times of 4:41.73 and 9:56. Lewis also placed second in the 800m run with a time of 2:06.31. Teammate Allen Leone won the 800m run with a time of 2:03.08.

Troy Johnston qualified in the 1600m and 3200m runs for SSC as he finished fourth and third, respectively.

His times were 4:53.95 and 11:02. Johnston's 1600m time was a personal best.

Sam Hudgens qualified to compete in the 300m intermediate hurdles with a time of 44.31 for fourth place.

Jake Johnson advanced in the pole vault with a height of 10'6". His effort was good enough for second place.

Frederick Mallini won the shotput with a throw of 48' 8.5" and Nick Weinman placed fourth with a distance of 42' 7.5".

Weinman also placed second in the discus with a throw of 127' 7". Teammate Jeremy Burke placed fourth with a throw of 118' 4".

SSC head coach Steve Flannery commented, "Everyone did what they had to do for us to succeed. Kyle Lewis proved why he is one of the premier distance runners in the state."

He won two events and placed second in another to give us 28.5 points. We had a tough break in the 110m hurdles but bounced back in the 300m race with Sam Hudgens.

Jake Johnson is stepping up his level of competition in the pole vault. I was concerned about Nick Weinman and Troy Johnston who entered the meet at less than 100%; however, they performed tremendously.

Jeremy Burke continues to improve and threw a personal best today.

Frederick Mallini was very focused on the shotput and it showed. Allen Leone continued to show very gutsy performances in the 800m.

"Going into a meet, we don't pray to win it but we pray to reach our potential. We want to do it in a way that honors God and the gifts we were given. We did that today as we competed with class and grit. They gave their best."

The Bay High Tigers qualified in three events for the South State meet.

Crystal Scretching advanced in the girls 400m dash. She crossed the line in fourth place with a time of 1:07.66. The boys 800m and 1600m relay teams each finished third overall with times of 1:34.22 and 3:42.21.

The Hancock Hawks will have one athlete advance to the South State meet in Gulfport on Saturday. Nick Narvaez placed fourth in the high jump with a height of 5'9".

There are only two more meets in track and field for the season. The South State and North State meets will be held this weekend while the State Championship meet will be held at Hughes Field in Jackson on Friday, May 9 and Saturday, May 10.

Spotlight On Dining 2003

El Mariachi Loco Inc.

Bienvenido! (welcome) to the best Mexican Restaurant around. Let me introduce you to El Mariachi Loco Mexican Restaurant located at 2060 Waveland Ave. and Hwy. 90, next to Waveland Market Center.

Tyán Marino, owner, has worked very hard to achieve his goal of having his very own restaurant and is so pleased with the comments he has been receiving from his valued customers. Marino feels that his reputation is riding on each and every dish that is served, so therefore great emphasis is placed on quality. However, just because the quality is excellent doesn't mean they scrimp on quantity. The portion sizes are very generous, the prices are reasonable and the service is great. For your trip to El Mariachi might I recommend what I had, an appetizer of guacamole dip, it was fresh, delicious and a wonderful glimpse of what was to come. I then ordered the Shrimp Quesadillas which consisted of two flour tortillas stuffed with fresh gulf shrimp, pico de gallo and cheese served with garden salad, sour cream, cheese dip and salsa verde, all this for under $10.00! So delicious, it would be well worth twice the price! The menu is extensive and offers salads, an ala carte menu, traditional Mexican favorites, vegetarian plates and desserts. Ice cold domestic and imported beers are also served. A full bar is now open and serving margaritas on the rocks or frozen.

Order a margarita with your lunch and it's only a $1.50.

New Orleans Saints, Mississippi ties and the 2003 NFL Draft

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The kickoff to the NFL season was held this past weekend in New York City - the 2003 NFL Draft. The pomp and circumstance that surround this event each year has unofficially become the kickoff to the new season.

In about two weeks the new draftees will head off to a mini-camp followed by other camps throughout the next couple of months. So, for you football junkies the season is right around the corner - about three months away from exhibition games.

We all know that Carson Palmer, the All-American quarterback and Heisman Trophy winner from USC, was the first selection overall. That surprise was ruined two days before when he agreed to a contract with the Cincinnati Bengals.

Palmer has all the tools to be a successful signal caller in the big leagues but only time will tell. And, the Bengals have not had too much success with their recent picks at quarterback. The last field general they picked with their No. 1 pick was Akili Smith three years ago. Who?!

The first player with Mississippi ties taken was Miami defensive end Jerome McDougle who played for Hinds County Community College prior to the Hurricane. McDougle was picked 15th overall by the Philadelphia Eagles.

But the real question is - how did the Saints do? New Orleans had two first round picks thanks to the Ricky Williams trade. They were set with the 17th and 18th overall picks; however, they traded both picks to Arizona for the right to move up to the #6 spot. With that pick the Saints chose Georgia defensive tackle Johnathan Sullivan. He was a first team All-SEC selection for the best team in the SEC at the end of the season. He is known to have a "nasty streak" which can prove to be invaluable on the defensive front. Sullivan had 74 tackles and four sacks as a junior in 2002.

The Saints sent "Heavy Lunch Bunch" member Norman Hand to Seattle on Sunday to open up the competition for a starting spot for Sullivan. Hand also was a salary cap liability for the Saints.

Sully's pick gives the Saints four SEC players in their last four first round picks. Last year, New Orleans chose Tennessee's Donté Stallworth and Georgia's Charles Grant. In 2001, Ole Miss running back Deuce McAllister was picked 23rd overall.

In the second round, the Saints chose Georgia offensive tackle Jon Stinchcomb with the 37th overall pick. A team can never have enough quality offensive linemen and they got quality with Stinchcomb. The Walter Camp All-American and first-team All-SEC selection stands 6-5 and weighs 310 pounds. He started 34 of 37 games and totaled 62 pancake blocks. Not a bad selection after they shipped off Kyle Turley.

The Saints picked up Cie Grant from national champion Ohio State in the third round. The 6-foot 240-pound linebacker ran a 4.47 in the 40-yard dash and also played outside linebacker, cornerback, and safety during his time in Columbus. He was an honorable mention All-Big 10 selection.

Montra Holland, an offensive guard from Florida State, was chosen in the fourth round. The 6-1 1/2, 333-pounder started 29 straight games for the Seminoles and was named a first team All-ACC selection and The Sporting News All-American third team.

The Saints went back to defense with their fifth round pick when Melvin Williams, a defensive end from Kansas State, was chosen. Williams tore his ACL in the waning moments of the Holiday Bowl this past season. The 6-2, 269-pound former teammate of Darren Howard ran a 4.81 in the 40-yard dash.

The final two selections in the sixth and seventh rounds, the Saints felt the need to draft wide receivers. The Saints have four good ones at that position but are really looking for a fifth man in the rotation. With All-Pro Joe Horn, Donté Stallworth, Jake Reed, and Jerome Pathon in the mix, the Saints hope that Kareem Kelly (6th round) or Talman Gardner (7th round) can round out the group. New Orleans still has Michael Lewis but are more impressed with his return ability than his wide receiver stock.

Kelly is a 6-foot, 186-pound wideout from USC who caught 46 passes for 605 yards and four scores. His 40-yard dash time has been clocked at 4.42.

Gardner is a hometown selection from McDonough High School. The 6-1, 205-pound Florida State Seminole has been timed at 4.45 in the 40-yard dash and had 38 receptions for 625 yards and eight scores his senior season.

McDougle was the first player with Mississippi ties taken; however, he wasn't the last. Andrew Williams was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers in the third round. Williams played at Hinds County Community College and Miami with McDougle.

Fullback Justin Griffith, tight end Donald Lee, and linebacker Mario Haggan were all drafted off the Mississippi State Bulldogs' roster. Griffith was chosen in the fourth round by Atlanta while Lee went to the Miami Dolphins in the fifth round. Haggan was picked up in the seventh round by Buffalo.

Doug Gabriel played at Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College and Central Florida before getting picked by Oakland in the fifth round.

Jeremy Bridges played offensive guard at USM and was taken in the sixth round by the Eagles. The only Ole Miss player taken in the draft was center Ben Claxton in the fifth round by Denver.

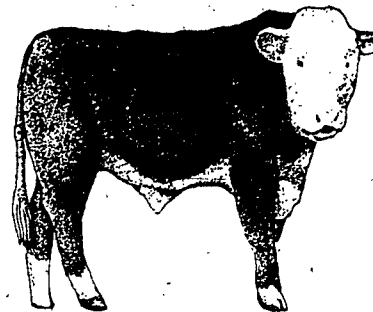

Itawamba Community College and University of Tennessee product Aubrayo Franklin was picked up by the Baltimore Ravens in the fifth round.

Ole Miss wide receiver Jason Armstead signed a free agent contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers while former Hinds County Community College quarterback and University of Iowa product Brad Banks signed on with the Washington Redskins.

East Hancock Math-A-Thon helps St. Jude

THE SEA COAST ECHO
St. Jude Children's Research Hospital last week announced the successful completion of the Math-A-Thon®, at East Hancock Elementary School in Kiln. Math-A-Thon®, now in its 24th year, is an educationally based fund-raising program in which students obtain sponsors for the number of math problems completed in special workbooks provided for students in grades K-9.

The program is sponsored nationally by Six Flags Theme Parks, who provide free passes to their parks for every student raising $35.00 or more.

The students who participate in the program learn to do more than just math problems; they also learn the importance of helping children who are less fortunate than themselves. St. Jude fully credits its successes in the treatment children to the generous support of people around the world, including the students at East Hancock Elementary School.

We are very proud of our students for working so hard on the Math-A-Thon®, said Ms. Graves, volunteer coordinator. With their help, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital will be able to create new treatments that may one day lead to a cure for many forms of cancer that will benefit the children of our state, our country, and around the world. I also want to extend our thanks to the Kiln community for supporting our students. It takes all of us to make a difference in the lives of children with cancer, and we can all feel proud of our response." St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tennessee was founded by the late entertainer, Danny Thomas.

The hospital is an internationally recognized biomedical research center dedicated to finding cures for catastrophic childhood diseases. The hospital's work is supported through funds raised by the American Lebanese Syrian Associated Charities (ALSAC). ALSAC covers all costs not covered by insurance for medical treatment rendered at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Families without insurance are never asked to pay. For more information, please visit www.stjude.org.

NASA encourages student participation in Educator Astronaut Program's Earth Crew

Students, educators and families are encouraged to interact with NASA by becoming part of the Educator Astronaut Program's (EAP) Earth Crew. Earth Crew is an interactive Web-based program that immerses participants in space-related educational activities.

Just like the thousands of NASA employees who contribute to the exploration of space without ever going into orbit, students can participate in NASA missions and research by joining the Earth Crew. Earth Crew members get e-mail updates about new projects, take part in exploration activities and, best of all, offer suggestions to NASA personnel about upcoming missions.

To become a member of the Earth Crew, teams must have one sponsor who is at least 13 years of age and who can receive e-mail, and one of the crewmembers must have nominated a teacher for the Educator Astronaut Program.

If you would like to be part of the Earth Crew and have not yet nominated a teacher for the Educator Astronaut Program, there is still time left.

If you know a teacher who inspires you to reach for the stars, visit the EAP Web site at <http://edspace.nasa.gov>, by April 30 to nominate him or her to become part of NASA's astronaut corps. Instructions on how to become a part of the Earth Crew are also located at this Web site.

Gulf Coast Motocross Championships at Kiln

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

The Hancock County Equine Facility and Livestock Arena will host the Champion Dodge Gulf Coast Motocross Championships on May 9 and 10. The event is a production of Southern Sports Promotions and Kenny Bilbo Productions.

Competitors will range in age from four to forty with classes for youth, amateur, and semi-pro divisions. Expect to see riders from more than five states competing on one of the most challenging tracks on the Arenacross circuit.

Double and Triple jumps along with a long Whoop section and huge finish line Table Top jump will keep riders and spectators on their feet for the entire show.

If you are not familiar with motocross, it has been around almost as long as there has been motorcycle racing.

It became popular in the 1970s, but improved technology in bikes, particularly in suspension has allowed the motocross to grow to the extreme sport that it is today. There are seven main types of the sport today:

Motocross: Traditional outdoor track racing with jumps and rolling terrain.

Supercross: A hybrid of motocross, usually indoors, with smaller tracks due to the indoor restrictions. Supercross features precise jumping and focuses on rhythm rather than speed.

Arenacross: Basically like Supercross but a different circuit.

Nationally, Arenacross riders competed for over $2.5 million in prizes last year.

Freestyle Motocross: An extreme event that requires expert jumpers performing tricks midair.

Hare Scramble: A natural terrain sport in which riders along trails, through the woods and over creeks.

Dual-sport: A combination of hare scramble and road racing, the bikes must be street legal as they also perform on portions of country roads.

Trails bike: An obstacle course specialized for dirt bikes, with large obstacles. A rider might jump a bike to the top of a full size van.

Racing starts at 7:30 each evening. Admission is $10 adults, and $8 children 12 and under. Save $2 off admission price by purchasing advance tickets at Jack's Firestone, G.B.&D. ATV, McClure Reality, Pro Works or call Southern Sports Promotions at 255-8110.

Red Bull Energy Drink will have its hospitality pavilion set up with free event posters, product samples and a rider autograph session with drawings throughout the evening.

The "Bud Girls" will be on site selling 50/50 Raffle Tickets with the proceeds going to a local charity.

Pete Fountain brings jazz to Casino Magic BSL

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Legendary New Orleans Jazz musician, Pete Fountain, announced recently that he has struck a partnership to perform at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis. The Tuesday and Wednesday night performances began this week.

In March, Fountain announced his plans to leave his own night club business after 43 years.

"I wasn't quite ready to really retire," Fountain said.

"He still wanted to play and we wanted him to play," said John Jagunich, president and general manager of Casino Magic.

Following a short video of his career, Fountain made a grand entrance into the press conference, leading a New Orleans style jazz band, much to the delight of the media and causal bystanders at the casino.

Synonymous with his incomparable jazzy clarinet playing, Fountain has owned a second home in Bay St. Louis for years. He plans to now spend more time there and play two nights a week on an ongoing basis at the casino.

He will perform from the main lobby stage.

A larger arena will be created if this area proves to be too small.

"This arrangement is perfect. I can live just minutes from where I work part-time and still get to do what I do best...perform," said Fountain.

"Bay St. Louis is the biggest secret in the world," Fountain proclaimed.

"We intend to change that," Jagunich added.

The 72 year old Fountain has always been considered an ambassador of New Orleans jazz as he performed his music nationally on guest appearances on network television and specials.

He's been seen on the Ed Sullivan Show, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Andy Williams specials. He has performed 59 times on Johnny Carson's "The Tonight Show," and more recently, his credits include A Close Up of Pete Fountain, Super Bowl Saturday Night and the National Memorial Day concert.

Fountain has performed at four U.S. State Dinners by command performance for four Presidents of the United States. He has also performed for Pope John Paul II at the New Orleans Papal Mass with an attendance of over 400,000 people.

"We are very excited and pleased that Pete has chosen to partner with us. We think we are a perfect match. As the closest Mississippi casino to New Orleans, we already have a large New Orleansian customer base, so we know that the majority of our customers will be familiar with Pete Fountain and love him," said Jagunich.

When asked if he would consider creating a museum to display his many accomplishments, Fountain replied that he had been wondering what to do with all the mementos collected over the years and currently displayed at his night club. "If someone finds a location, we can fill it up," he said.

Fountain has performed with music legends ranging from Louis Armstrong and Harry James to Harry Connick, Jr. Yet to this day, his greatest thrill is taking the stage and performing the music he loves, watching as it works its irresistible magic on the audience.

Over the years his national fame and fans followed him to New Orleans, which allowed his club to expand into the largest jazz club in the city.

During his career, he has recorded close to 100 albums. Three of his albums have gone gold: "Pete Fountain's New Orleans,"

"The Blues," and "Mr. New Orleans." He also received a gold record for his hit single, "Just A Closer Walk With Thee."

He has received numerous awards and honors such as the #1 Jazz Clarinetist for 13 consecutive years in the Playboy Readers Poll; King of Bacchus; an Emmy for the 1990 Super Bowl Pre-Game Music; and the 1993 Louisiana Legends Award.

And this year, he will be the honoree at Musical Legends Park on Bourbon Street with a life-sized bronze of the man, himself.

At the end of the press conference, Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Farve presented Fountain with a plaque proclaiming him a Bay St. Louis "Star Citizen". And also pronounced the clarinet as the official musical instrument of the city.

BSL Little Theatre 'Noises Off' May 9-11, 16-18

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will present "Noises Off" May 9-11, 16-18 and 23-24 at the John F. Holmes Playhouse.

This comedy by Michael Frayn reveals the chaos that takes place during a traveling theater company's production of "Nothing On."

"Noises Off" offers its audience the opportunity to see what happens in rehearsals and backstage.

The show also illustrates the devastatingly comical effects that personal emotions can have on a production.

"Noises Off!" will star Kim Diecidue, Lenny Scardino, Shannon Jenkins, Malinda Braland, Edward Duhon, Michelle Kessling, John Anderson, Brady Bordelon, John Killinger and Taylor Corso. Theresa Scardino will direct. Others involved include Larry

Clark, assistant director; Scott Darrah, producer; David A. May, stage manager; Mark Diecidue, lights; and Cecilia Howe, Russel Krosgard, Juanita May and Stacy Schiro.

Show times are at 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and at 2 p.m. on Sundays.

The playhouse is located at 301 Boardman Avenue. For more information and to make reservations, call 228-467-2587.
